

Asim Aslam

Micro, Founder London UK

May 2015 - Present

Simplifying distributed systems development.

- Created Micro - a microservice toolkit
- Established an open source ecosystem
- Growing a 1000+ member community
- Sponsored by Sixt, a billion dollar enterprise
- Trusted by Karhoo, Riverbed, Sixt and many more

Hailo, Cloud Architect London UK

Aug 2013 – May 2015

Built a next generation microservices platform.

- Helped establish Hailo as a technology driven business
- Built and scaled a multi-continent microservices platform
- Developed globally distributed systems and tools
- Worked with Cassandra, Zookeeper, NSQ, AWS, etc

Google, Site Reliability Engineer London UK

Aug 2011 – March 2013

Built systems at Google scale.

- Led migration of BTQ systems into Google post acquisition
- Built and managed multi continent distributed systems
- Architected failover procedures and systems for BTQ/Google integration
- Developed early cluster management tools for Google Cloud Platform
- After being promoted, moved to Traffic Team who manage all Google's ingress and egress traffic.

BeatThatQuote.com, System Administrator London UK

Feb 2007 – July 2011

Acquired by Google in 2011 for $65m.

- Managed all BTQ technology
- Performance and scalability of production architecture
- Ensured business continuity through high availability
- Generalist and jack of all trades

Certifications CCNA (2006)

Education Napier University, BEng Computer Networks and Distributed Systems – Distinction (2006)

Interests Health & fitness, reading, traveling, film & music, photography, startups, technology.

Online linkedin.com/in/asimaslam github.com/asim
asimaslam.com